

FOUNDATION YEAR (MAN)

Aims and outcomes

This course allows students with no specific skills in art and design to gain access to undergraduate courses in this area. It is aimed at providing a good foundation in arts, helping students choose the right pathway, and serves as a probationary year for the rest of the undergraduate course.

Course content

Pace and quantity of work make the foundation course quite a difficult one. The year is divided into three terms during which the students are regularly assessed. Teachers comment on the level achieved by each student in April. Students build up a personal file that will serve as a "passport" for future applications including those to placements.

Entry requirements

Admission to the foundation course is granted no more than one year after the completion of secondary education.

A first set of applicants is selected according to academic records.

The shortlisted applicants then have to submit to a written and graphic test.

After a foundation course

Students do not necessarily stay at ENSAAMA Olivier de Serres. They can apply for a BTS (undergraduate degree) in another school since it follows a national curriculum.

A panel will decide whether admission in the required TS section is possible, depending on the quality of the year's work and on the level achieved.
